Senator Bill Cassidy
828 Hart Senate Office Building
United States Senate

Dear Senator Cassidy,

As representatives of Moms for America, a nationwide network of over half a million mothers dedicated to promoting faith, family, and freedom, we urge you to confirm the nominations of Pete Hegseth, Robert F. Kennedy Jr., Tulsi Gabbard, and Kash Patel. These individuals will advance the principles and policies needed to advance a pro-family agenda, which is essential to the well-being of America's children, families, and communities.

Supporting Pro-Family Policies

The America First agenda prioritizes the needs of families, emphasizing parental rights, educational freedom, national security, and the protection of children. These priorities resonate with millions of moms across the nation who are concerned about the erosion of family values and the challenges posed by modern societal pressures.

It is common sense that parents, not bureaucrats, should have the ultimate authority in deciding what's best for their children's education. This includes ensuring transparency in school curricula, defending against ideologies that undermine traditional values, and protecting children from harmful influences. However, under the Biden-Harris administration, moms were treated like domestic terrorists merely for asserting their parental rights. Confirming Kash Patel as the next FBI Director will go a long way toward rooting out the politicization of federal law enforcement that resulted in such a gross abuse of power.

America's families also face a growing health crisis fueled by ultra-processed foods, environmental toxins, and a lack of transparency in public health policies. Robert F. Kennedy Jr.'s track record as an environmental and public health advocate demonstrates his commitment to safeguarding the health of future generations. His leadership would prioritize accountability, transparency, and the health of our children.

Protecting America's families requires a robust national defense and a commitment to individual liberties. Pete Hegseth, a decorated veteran who has devoted years to supporting veterans, is the perfect person to implement Donald Trump's doctrine of peace through strength without resorting to pointless and open-ended warfare.

Tulsi Gabbard represents the kind of courageous leadership needed to bridge divides and promote unity. Like RFK Jr., she is a former Democrat whose nomination signals the incoming administration's admirable openness to pursuing bipartisan solutions. Her commitment to common-sense policies, respect for diverse perspectives, and focus on individual freedoms align with the values of mothers across the political spectrum. Her voice is crucial in fostering collaboration and ensuring that pro-family initiatives garner broad support.

Why These Nominations Matter

The nominees you will consider are not just leaders; they are advocates for the values that underpin our great nation. Their collective expertise, integrity, and dedication to family-focused policies make them uniquely qualified to advance an agenda that prioritizes America's most fundamental institution: the family.

We urge you to act swiftly and decisively in confirming Pete Hegseth, Robert F. Kennedy Jr., Tulsi Gabbard, and Kash Patel. By doing so, you will send a clear message to the millions of moms and families who are counting on you to stand up for faith, family, and freedom.

Thank you for your leadership and commitment to the values that make America strong.

Sincerely,

Kimberly Fletcher
